HAMON'S SECRETARY TELLS STORY OF HIS POWER IN POLITICS; CLAIMS HE WAS IN LINE FOR CABINET PORTFOLIO

Also Recited Some of the Alleged History of the 1920 Convention in Which he Lays Claim to Starting of Swing to Mr. Harding After Hamon Deserted General Wood

STAYED WITH LOWDEN FOR AWHILE

By CARL VICTOR LITTLE
United Press Staff Correspondent

Ardmore, Okla.—Wm. B. Nichols told the United Press today what he tried to tell the jury the other day of the power Jake Hamon wielded in national politics. Nichols was the political lieutenant and advisor of Jake Hamon whose secretary protegee Clara Smith Hamon is on trial for his murder. Nichols witness for the state, gave the following description of his talk with Hamon just before he died: "Jake Hamon told me to call on Warren Harding and get some of his friends taken care of." This is where his story was stopped abruptly in court but here is the rest of it as he told it today. "I am going to make good on the dying request of Jake Hamon, I am going to the White House to see President Harding in two weeks. Jake Hamon, whose wife is a relative of President Harding, was one of the most powerful men in the Republican party. He had favored the nomination of Major Leonard Wood but Wood appointed a political enemy of Hamon's as one of his chief lieutenants. Jake Hamon then broke with the General. Andrew King of Boston, one of the leading Wood men, tried to prevent a break but Hamon told him "King I am through with Leonard Wood." Hamon was elected as National Committeeman in the March primaries. He ruled the Republican State Convention in Oklahoma City shortly afterward. The convention decided that the Oklahoma delegation to the Republican National Convention would support Governor Frank Lowden, of Ill.

At a little conference in room 914 of the Blackstone Hotel on the night before the Chicago convention opened Jake Hamon was the boss. Hamon looked squarely at Lowden that night and said "Frank you haven't got a Chinaman's chance for the nomination but I am going to stick with you for a while to give you a chance. Then we go over to Warren Harding." Hamon got the delegations from Penna., Okla., and Arizona to agree to go along on that plan. It was at that time that Hamon met General Leonard Wood and Wood asked Hamon's support. Hamon said "General I like you but I am going to fight you. You all know the result. The man Jake Hamon supported is in the White House. It was Hamon that started the swing to Harding at the convention. Jake Hamon did what no other man ever did before, he put Oklahoma in the Republican column for the first time in history. While lying on his deathbed Hamon received several telegrams from President-elect Harding when he was in Panama. As Hamon's warm personal friend and close confidential advisor I make this statement. If Jake Hamon had not been shot he would have been the Secretary of the Interior instead of Albert Fall of New Mexico. The job was already offered him."

The State expects to present the rest of its witnesses today. It is understood that premeditation is what the state expects to prove. Frank Ketch, business associate of Hamon's is to be the chief witness for the state unless Mrs. Jake Hamon, the dead man's widow is called to the stand, but it is doubtful.

MANY IMPORTANT NOMINATION SENT TO THE SENATE BY PRESIDENT HARDING

Washington.—The President sent the following nominations to the Senate today: Eugene Meyer, Jr. of New York to be director of the War Finance Corporation for a term of four years; Jonathan Mayhew Wainwright of New York to be assistant Secretary of War; Elliot Wadsworth of Mass. to be Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. Wainwright, nominated for Assistant Secretary of War, was a colonel in the 27th Division in France serving in the Judge Advocate's Division.

ERIE WILL REDUCE WORKING FORCE AFTER RE-EMPLOYING ALL ITS FORCE

Meadville, Pa., March 14.—After reemploying all of the shop men on full time on Saturday the Erie Railroad today posted notices in its shop here that the working force will be reduced 33 1-3 per cent this week.

ATTRACTIVE ORDERS

Offers of profitable export business running into large sums are a matter of daily occurrence. Collateral offered as security for long term loans is uniformly good. A typical instance was the offer made during the past week by certain business interests in Roumania, who indicated their readiness to set aside as collateral large supplies of stored oil and government bonds. A similar offer was made today by commercial agents from Bulgaria. A certain flour miller has stated that he has before him at present two inquiries from foreign buyers; a visit at the offices of the Foreign Trade Financing Corporation by Geo-

of flour for Poland and another for an equal amount for Czechoslovakia. One offers to put up as security Polish government bonds, payable in American dollars, for twice the amount of the value of the flour; drafts to be payable within six months of shipment. The other offers to put up sugar certificates for sugar stored in Czechoslovakia with the understanding that these certificates would be margined down to the present value of sugar. Credit desired here is also for six months. The extent to which manufacturers are aroused over this daily loss of foreign business was indicated by a visit at the offices of the Foreign Trade Financing Corporation by Geo-

NEW HEADQUARTERS FOR HEALTH CLINIC NEAR THE LIBERTY

Thru the co-operation of the State Department of Health and the Anti-Tuberculosis Committee of the Women's Club it has been possible to secure the quarters at No. 9 South Third street, next door to O'Brien's Jewelry Shop for the local Tuberculosis Dispensary and committee headquarters. Owing to lack of funds the State Department was forced several years ago to remove the dispensary to the hospital. The distance from the center of town has made it very inconvenient for many county patients as well as those from town to attend and it is hoped that the new location will give every opportunity for those who need this service to avail themselves of it.

The clinic hours will be as heretofore, viz: Tuesday from 10 to 12 a. m. and Friday from 3 to 5 p. m. These roomy quarters will also provide a center for the activities of the Anti-Tuberculosis Committee of the Women's Club which are made possible and are entirely dependent upon the proceeds of the annual sale of Xmas seals and Health Bonds. This organization is the recognized agency in Clearfield for the Pennsylvania Tuberculosis Society and has done much commendable work in this district not only along relief lines but in the educational campaign against the great white plague.

Beginning Friday March 18th and every Tuesday and Friday thereafter at the hours stated above the dispensary will be open to the public. Examinations for suspected tuberculosis are made free of charge and any needed treatment and advice given those unable to provide it for themselves. There will no longer be clinic hours for the tuberculosis dispensary at the Clearfield Hospital after that date.

AMERICAN LEGION BOYS WIN

The American Legion Basketball team defeated the Kittany Five from State College at the local High School gym Saturday evening before a fair sized crowd of fans. The game was close and exciting from start to finish and kept the spectators on their toes all the time.

Johnson's foul shooting and all-around playing of Johnny Lavan featured the local game. Aaron Dowler, a former High favorite, and Charley Way, the State player, chosen for the all American football team were the headlines on the visiting team. The score was Clearfield, 34; State College, 21.

ree R. Meyercoon president of the Illinois Manufacturers Association. Mr. Meyercoon declared that the Illinois manufacturers are thoroughly alive to the situation. Manufacturers throughout the Middle West he said, see in these foreign orders their only hope of returning soon to the full-time schedule for their factories, and do not propose to see this lucrative business going to waste for lack of adequate financing.

FIFTY MEASURES UP FOR FINAL PASSAGE IN THE HOUSE THIS WEEK AT HARRISBURG

Deficiency Bill Calling for Higher Salary for Teacher will Meet with Little Oppo-

CALLS FOR TWO MILLIONS

Harrisburg, March 14.—Some of the most important bills of the session will come up for final action in the house this week.

The daylight saving bill and the bill raising the salaries of supreme court judges are to be considered under special orders tonight. They will probably occupy most of the time and prevent action on the large calendar of bills to be voted on finally.

More than 50 bills will be passed this week if the regular order of business is taken up. There are 40 bills on the third reading calendar and a dozen or more on the postponed calendar.

Among the other important bills that will be called up for a vote this week are:

The appropriations bill calling for an expenditure of $59,000,000 in the departments of the state government.

The bill providing that employees of the state shall be citizens of the commonwealth.

The equal rights bill recognizing negroes as citizens and preventing discrimination.

The new game bill providing for a uniform season.

The police pension fund bill for cities of the third class.

The bill fixing the salaries of jury commissioners in cities of the third class.

The bill authorizing third class cities to pass ordinances to pay for public works and improvements.

The bill regulating the sale of dangerous and deadly weapons.

The Sunday baseball bill.

The Jones bill amending laws relating to boroughs, up for final passage.

Important hearings are scheduled for this week in addition to the regular calendar. The Sunday baseball bill and the bill taxing aliens are scheduled for this week.

The Martin prohibition enforcement bill which was acted on in committee last week will come before the house and will probably be ordered back for a public hearing.

The general appropriation bill which comes up tonight will probably be sent back to committee where attempts will be made to revise the bill so that early passage may be assured. There undoubtedly will be a great deal of pruning before a majority will agree to it as it carries items which total some $14,000,000 more than was carried in the bill of the previous session.

Harrisburg, March 14.—A deficiency bill that will meet with little opposition in the legislature, it is believed, is contained in a bill introduced in the house last week by Representative Woodruff, Philadel-

Ardmore, Okla., March 14.—Clara Smith Hamon has 50 proposals for marriage her attorneys said today. She received the proposals from all over the country. "I do not care whether you are found guilty or not I want to marry" said one ardent lover. He enclosed his photograph.

BAD STREETS NIGH BROKE UP HOME SAYS DRY CLEANER

If council don't pave south Fourth street this year they should at least pass resolutions of sympathy for A. G. Bartholomew, the Market street dry cleaner.

Friend Bartholomew, who lives on South Fourth street, became the father of his first born son a couple of weeks ago. The happy event occurred at the Clearfield Hospital and Daddy Bartholomew has been unable to get his family home for the very good reason that it was absolutely impossible to get the hospital ambulance up Fourth street on account of the condition of the street.

That sure is going some for one of the main arteries into the town and a street within three squares of the court house.

FOREIGN AGENTS ACTIVE

Hope of relieving this situation, which finds America anxious to sell and foreigners anxious to buy, all to no purpose, is seen in the large number of business offers which have already been made to officials of the Foreign Trade Financing Corporation. Agents of foreign purchasers are calling daily at the offices of the new corporation at 66 Broadway, to inquire concerning the prospects of making long-term credits available in the near future. Buyer and seller alike are now just in the frame of mind to make the new corporation a success. They see in the plans for his corporation their one real hope of checking the slump which is causing the million dollar losses of urgent foreign orders.

NOON STOCKS

New York, March 14.—Twelve o'clock prices on the stock exchange today were: American Locomotive 82 3-4, Anaconda, 35, Baldwin Locomotive 83 5-8, B. & O. 31 1-2, Central Leather 37 3-8, Erie 13 3-4, preferred 17 1-4, General Electric 129 1-4, General Motors 13 5-8, Middle States Oil 11 1-2, Midvale 30, Okla., Producers 3 1-2, Penna. 26, Sinclair 31 1-8, United States Steel 78 3-8, Westinghouse 45 3-4.

phia, providing for payment of increases in teachers' salaries.

The bill calls for an appropriation of $1,700,000 and is authorized to be paid by the department of public instruction. It is designated to vocational teachers and is also intended to pay the state share of salary increases in accordance with the act of 1919.

SIX SINN FEINERS EXECUTED AT DUBLIN PRISON WHILE THOUSANDS SAY PRAYERS

Dublin, March 14.—Six Sinn Feiners were executed in Mt. Joy prison today by British authorities while 20,000 persons knelt in prayer outside the walls. The condemned men were led in pairs to their death at hourly intervals. All met their fate coolly and almost cheerfully. Elaborate preparations were taken to prevent disturbance in the city. Extra guards were mounted and patrolled through the crowd. Work was stopped. Many private industries were forced to suspend while employees joined the crowd at the prison gates. At the first sound of the prison bell announcing the start of the execution the anxious thousands threw themselves on the cobble stones and fingered their beads with nervous fingers.

HARDING AWAITING NEWS FROM GREAT BRITAIN BEFORE NAMING MR. HARVEY

Washington.—President Harding is awaiting assurance from the British government that Col. George Harvey will be acceptable as American Ambassador to London before his nomination is sent to the Senate it was learned today. These assurances have not yet been received and it is practically certain therefore that Harvey's nomination will not go to the Senate today. In making ambassadorial appointments it is customary to make formal inquiry of the government to which the Ambassador is to go as to his acceptance. A reply to this question is always favorable except in extreme cases.

SEARCH PERTH AMBOY VICE DENS FOR BRUTAL SLAYER OF CHURCH ORGANIST

Perth Amboy, N. J.—Sailors' "hang outs", "poison booze" dens and other dives at Perth Amboy and Staten Island were searched today for "Jack, the Ripper" who is held responsible for the death of two women in this vicinity. His latest victim was Mrs. Harvey E. Wilson, aged 28, organist in the Simpson M. E. Church here. A woman was foully killed in the same manner about a week ago in New Brighton. The same man is believed to be responsible for both murders.

OBITUARY

LESLIE STEWART

In the death of Leslie Stewart which occurred at his home on East Pine street at 5:30 o'clock Friday morning, March 11, Clearfield lost one of her leading business men and one of her most progressive and best known citizens. A man, whose passing away in the prime of life, is a distinct loss to the community in which he has played such a prominent part during the past quarter century.

Leslie Stewart was the son of the late Joseph and Rebecca Stewart and was born on a farm in Bigler township, near Madera on March 22, 1868, and his death therefore occurred within one week of his fifty-third birthday anniversary. He grew up on the farm, spending his winters in the lumber woods of Clearfield county. Embarking in the grocery business in Houtzdale in 1892, he continued to successfully conduct same until 1897, when he purchased an interest in the insurance business of Biddle and Helmbold and came to Clearfield with his family. An indefatigable worker and keen business man, he brought new life to the old firm and soon placed this concern in the very front rank among the insurance firms of this section of the state. The firm name was changed to Helmbold and Stewart and upon the death, a few years since, of the senior partner Mr. Stewart, associating his sons, J. Lynn and Howard, with him, took over the entire business, which they have since successfully conducted.

Loyal to his home community and its institutions, Leslie Stewart always took a keen interest in public affairs, and every movement looking to the upbuilding of the town and the betterment of her people found in him a sturdy champion. He served several terms as a member of the school board and his wise counsel during that service and ever since has had much to do with putting our schools upon a high plane they now occupy. He also served as a member of the shade tree commission for several years and gave this important position the same careful intelligent attention he brought to all other public positions he so capably filled.

A staunch Republican in politics, he always took an active interest in party affairs. He was elected county treasurer in 1904 and filled that important office in a highly satisfactory manner and with credit to himself and his party. He also served as county chairman during the campaign of 1908.

Leslie Stewart and Laura O. Patterson, of Jordan township, were united in marriage August 28, 1889, and to this union was born nine children, all of whom, with their mother, survive to mourn the loss.

of a most devoted and loving husband and father. The children are: Wade I. Clearfield; Laura B., wife of Frank Hart; and J. Lynn, Clearfield; the late R. B. Frank, Howard, Grace M., Frances M. and Elizabeth E., all of Clearfield. He is also survived by one brother, Joseph Stewart, who lives on the old homestead in Bigler township.

Leslie Stewart was a "man's man," and a man among men. Of a genial, sunny nature he loved companionship and was a welcome addition to any company, which fact is testified by his lodge and social affiliations. He was a member of Clearfield Lodge No. 314, F. and A. M., of which he served as past master in 1908; Clearfield Chapter No. 238, R. A. M.; Moshannon Commandery No. 74, Knights Templar; Williamsport Consistory, A. A. S. L.; Jaffa Temple, A. A. O. U. M. S.; Altoona; Clearfield Fraternity Club; Clearfield Lodge No. 198, I. O. O. F.; Clearfield Encampment No. 232, O. O. F., and Crystal Springs Road and Gun Club of which organization he was the president.

He was an earnest and consistent member of Trinity Methodist church, being a member of the board of trustees at the time of his death.

The funeral was held from the Stewart home at 2 o'clock this afternoon, his pastor the Rev. W. W. Hartman, officiating. Interment was made in Hillcrest cemetery.

MORE FORGERIES COME TO LIGHT

Those East End boys arrested Thursday night last for check forging appear to have been making quite a business of it. Since the discovery of the D. B. Wesley forgery five other phoney checks have turned up.

These checks were passed at the stores of Ross & Woods and Kurtz Bros. Sam Barnum's Workman's East End and the Driggs Theatre. They purported to have been drawn by the City Bakery. The boys received $73 all told on their forged checks.

MFT HORRIBLE DEATH

While shooting out stumps at his farm home at Forrest, below Munson, Friday morning, Ernest Lalla, aged 48 years, was horribly mangled when a charge of dynamite prematurely exploded. He sustained a fractured skull, both eyes blown out and both hands torn off. He died at his home about 10 o'clock last night. His wife and six children survive.

MRS. JOHN STAUFFER DIES

Mrs. John Stauffer, one of Burnside's most highly respected residents passed away at her home on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The deceased was the mother of Paul Stauffer of this place.

ODDS AND ENDS
AND THINGS

By "Skinney"

Miss K. Raleigh in a recent lecture before the Women's Freedom League in London, made the statement that St. Paul did not forbid women to preach. In explaining her statement she said:

By the removal of a few dots and commas, it could be proved that the apostle did not forbid women to preach, and did not command women to obey their husbands, nor insist that ever and aye, whatever the fashion of the country, they should wear hats in church.

Neither did he say that women should never wear jewelry and fine clothes. He only bade them leave their jewelry at home and dress plainly when preaching or setting out on missionary journeys.

The correct translation of the word "obey" in the sentence, "Women, obey your husbands," was "be considerate to." Women were commanded to cover their heads, for the same reason that men were to uncover their heads in church, because it was the custom of that time.

Clearfield county's district attorney has an idea that laws are made to be enforced, and as noted in a clipping in the DuBois Courier, appearing under the head "Exchanges", on this page, he is getting after the liquor law violators. Unfortunately the boundary line does not permit him to legally carry on his operations in Centre county.—Philpsburg Journal.

This tribute to our District Attorney is very interesting and to the point. Centre county needs such a man as John C. Arnold but Clearfield county will continue to need his services.

A WORTHY APPEAL

American contributions cabled to Peking for the rescue of the starving Chinese have reached a total of $4,055,000, according to a statement given out tonight by the American Committee for China Famine fund. That sum, officials of the committee estimate, will mean the saving of 811,000 lives.

At least $3,000,000 of the total amount it is estimated, has already reached the empty bowls of the Chinese in the form of grain, meaning three hundred million meals. But so severe is the famine, these meals have had to be doled out sparingly, and only to those of the starving population who are strongest, and best able to last the remaining months until the next harvest. According to reports from China reaching the American Committee, a tremendously increased volume of outside help is needed if the inhabitants of the stricken provinces are to be kept in physical shape to plant their crops when the cold weather lifts. The famine has now reached its crisis.

All efforts of the Committee, which has now established branches in all states of the country, and in this city are being directed toward speeding up contributions, pointing out that a dollar cabled now, has a life-saving value of two dollars cabled a week hence.

The Committee has set up a swift system of getting funds to China, and the all-American committee on the other side, handling the funds, has likewise perfected methods for converting the money into grain and getting it to the remote relief centers without an hour's unavoidable delay. The grain is purchased in Manchuria, and transported, by railroad, without charge, and by coolie-carriers, to the districts where the suffering is worst.

Work in the churches has taken on an increasing impetus, as the seriousness of the famine is more fully revealed in messages from missionaries of the different denominations. Commercial organizations, likewise have increased their effort, with the members of the United States Chamber of Commerce taking a leading part. Rotarians throughout the country are the latest to enlist in the campaign.

DRIVE AWAY HEADACHE

Rub Musterole on Forehead and Temples

A headache remedy without the dangers of "headache medicine." Relieves headache and that miserable feeling from colds or congestion. And it acts at once! Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Better than a mustard plaster and does not blister. Used only externally, and in no way can it affect stomach and heart, as some internal medicines do.

Excellent for sore throat, bronchitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, all pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frostbites, colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia).

PULLED BREAD

Set one small or 1-2 loaf (fresh bread) of Workman's Bread in oven until it is heated through, remove and while hot cut through the crust at each end and pull the bread apart: repeat the cutting and pulling until the bread is separated into small pieces. Return the pieces to the oven in shallow pan to dry out and color delicately.

A Tribute To The Memory Of Leslie Stewart From Members Of The Crystal Springs Rod & Gun Club

Three and fifty cycles of the Hunters' moon have elapsed since there was born into this world one of nature's noblemen. Nurtured in his infancy, trained in his youth and developed into a perfect manhood he came forth to take his place among men. How well he fulfilled his mission, how much he was beloved and how keenly we feel his loss is herein expressed in a sad and humble spirit by the half hundred members of this club, of which he was our worthy leader.

Those of us who camped with him and with him roamed the woods he loved so well, had a deeper insight to his generous nature. When we leave the conventionalities of business and social life behind and take up our abode in the fastness of the forest, communing with nature, it is then and there that men bare their very hearts and souls to their companions. He withstood the test and proved himself to be a manly man, a loyal friend and a perfect gentleman, quiet and unassuming by nature, yet he was the very embodiment of good fellowship, having the courage of his convictions and the confidence of his fellowmen, he soon gained and held the respect of all.

To him selfishness had no place in life, always kind, considerate and thoughtful, he smiled when others were happy, he grieved when others were distressed, his place in the chase, at the table, by the campfire was subordinate to the desires and comforts of others. His keen joy in living and the general warmth of his personality will always remain a source of inspiration and strength.

When we again heed the call of the wild and return to our mountain retreat, his spirit will prevail. The sunrise o'er the hilltops will suggest his kindly morning greetings to us all. The autumnal sunsets followed by the mantle of darkness will be as his passing from our sight.

The silence of the mountains and loneliness of the vale will be but the reflections of our feelings at his departure. The whispering winds will admonish us to "speak softly for nature mourns a lover."

The sighing leaves of the trees will be saying "he has passed this way." The springs, the rills, the rocks and hills will loom as nature's shrines at which he worshipped.

Lastly we will travel along the trails he trod feeling we must overtake him on the way; we will fire the signal shots, we will call aloud, but, alas—the answering echo from the mountains saying, "Gone, gone—beyond recall."

MRS. FREEMAN SHOPE DIES

Mrs. Freeman Shope, Nichols street, died last evening at the home of her daughter in Surveyor, where she had been called on account of her daughter's illness. Mrs. Shope, who was 59 years of age, had been a sufferer from Bright's disease for some time.

This Love Song Brings $10,000

The musical extract below is an excerpt of: WHEN YOU'RE GONE I WON'T FORGET, one of the prettiest love songs written since SILVER TEREADS AMONG THE GOLD. For the copyright of this ballad, the publisher paid $10,000. This song is the answer song to that stupendous song success which has been sweeping the country: WHEN I'M GONE YOU'LL SOON FORGET, and it will become just as popular. The extract of the chorus below was clipped from a copy of the song just received.

WHEN YOU'RE GONE I WON'T FORGET

This song will no doubt win great fame throughout the country owing to its wonderful lyric and tuneful and catchy melody which are well blended together. When once heard, it will never be forgotten. It is splendidly recorded for player pianos and phonographs.

GUARD AGAINST AN EPIDEMIC

Enrich and Strengthen Your Blood Now With That Splendid Tonic, Gude's Pepto-Mangan

RICH RED BLOOD FIGHTS GERMS

If You are Pale, Overtired Lacking in Energy and Enthusiasm, Your Blood is Probably Thin and Needs a Tonic

The first and perhaps the only thing you can do to avoid the dangers that would come if there were an epidemic, is to take special care of your health. Keep your blood in good condition. The blood very often gets in bad shape, almost without your knowing it. How many times you feel tired and exhausted. You have an ailing feeling for weeks. You don't care about eating or going anywhere. Your work becomes an effort and you wake up in the morning more tired than when you went to bed.

When you feel like that, look to your blood. You can be pretty sure it is in a weakened condition. You have been straining either mentally or physically and your blood has become clogged with poisons.

Don't let yourself get run down. If you do not feel right, begin taking Gude's Pepto-Mangan and keep it up for awhile.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan is put up in both liquid and tablet form and is sold by druggists everywhere. The liquid and tablets have exactly the same medicinal value. Buy whichever you prefer and be sure it is genuine "Gude's" Pepto-Mangan. The name "Gude's" is on the package.

MILLIONS ARE LOST IN FOREIGN TRADE SLUMP

American Business Forced To Turn Down Many Orders

New York, March 14.—Weekly losses of export orders running into millions of dollars were indicated in a report issued today at the office of the Foreign Trade Financing Corporation, which is now being organized under the Edge Act to promote the country's foreign trade by granting long term credits which are needed for financing purchases of American goods abroad.

Information assembled by the organization committee indicates a situation which is without parallel in the memory of leading New York business men. Following are a few of the most significant facts collated in the corporation's survey.

There are in New York today a larger number of purchasing agents for buyers abroad than at any time since the close of the war.

Several million bales of cotton are now stored at various points in the South, held up by lack of adequate credit machinery to finance their sale to buyers abroad.

Surplus supplies of grain, to the extent of several hundred millions of bushels above this country's normal need, are stored at primary points throughout the Middle West, held up for similar reasons.

In the absence of adequate facilities, due to the fact that commercial banks have extended their lending resources to the limit of prudence, certain large corporations are preparing to finance their own business.

As an emergency measure, certain manufacturers are reverting to the ancient practice of barter.

In one middle western state manufacturers are facing a loss of twenty million dollars in current export orders from southeastern Europe alone.

BANKS CANVASSED

A canvass of banks in the financial district, made for the purpose of shedding light on the possibilities of immediate business abroad, revealed the fact that there is a strong demand for credits running from six months to a year by responsible business interests in Japan, Germany, Denmark, Finland, the Balkans, South Africa, Italy, Australia and the republics of South America.

These credits are sought to finance purchases of America's food stuffs and raw materials, standard articles of manufacture, and, in addition, many manufactured specialties such as electric dynamos, harvesting machinery, locomotives, type writers, machine tools, adding machines, tractors and miscellaneous engineering equipment. Bank officials were unanimous in commenting upon the sound character of this business, but could see no way of extending the desired credit under existing facilities.

BACK TO BARTER

A certain manufacturer of electrical equipment is reported to have taken in return for his products a certain quantity of eggs and bristles. A manufacturer of electrical equipment is reported to have taken silks and pottery. Barter is entirely possible as one solution of the problem, and may prove highly profitable, but it is not regarded as anything more than an emergency measure, due to the great risks devolving upon the exporter in this country.

The far-reaching influence involved in the concerted plans of farmers, bankers and manufacturers to supply the needed credit machinery through the Foreign Trade Financing Corporation, is reflected in the marked interests being shown in the progress of organization by members of the American and foreign embassies. The necessity of purchasing America's surplus raw materials is regarded in many countries as a matter of national importance, and representatives of these countries here are showing a proportionate interest in the effort to set up the banking facilities which alone make these purchases possible. For example, Roger Nielson, technical adviser of the Royal Danish Legation has pointed out that Denmark is in urgent need of raw materials and many manufactured products.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—John Stuart Webster, mining engineer, after dealing up a fortune in Death Valley, Calif., boards a train for the East. He befriends a young lady annoyed by a masher, thoroughly tiring the "bast."

CHAPTER II.—At Denver Webster receives a letter from Billy Geary, his closest friend. Geary urges him to come to Sobranite, Central America, to finance and develop a mining claim. He decides to go.

CHAPTER III.—Dolt as Rusey, the young woman Webster befriended, and who has made a deep impression on him, as he has on her, is also on the way to Sobranite.

CHAPTER IV.—At Buenaventura, capital of Sobranite, Billy Geary, his friend, is living on the charity of "Mother Jenks," keeper of a dramshop. She receives a cablegram from Dolores, telling of her coming.

CHAPTER V.

Without quite realizing why he did so, Billy decided that fear and not grief was at the bottom of the good creature's distress, and in his awkward, unskillful way he placed his arm around Mother Jenks' shoulders, shook her gently, and bade her remember that chaos might come and go again, but he, the said William Geary, would remain her true and steadfast friend in any and all emergencies that might occur.

"God bless yer heart, Willie," Mother Jenks sniffled. "I dunno wat 'ell yer ever goin' to think o' me w'en I tell wat I've been up to this past fifteen year."

"Whatever you've been up to, Mother, it was a kind and charitable deed—of that much I am certain," Billy replied loftily and to his own surprise—sincerely.

"As God is my judge, Willie, I started out that way," moaned Mother Jenks, and she squeezed Billy's hand as if from that yellow, shaking member she would draw aid and comfort. "Er nyma is Dolores Rusey. Er father was Don Ricardo Rusey, president av this blasted 'ell on earth w'en me an' my sainted Emery first come to Buenaventura. 'E was too good for the roller-bellied beggars; 'e tried to do somethink for them an' run the decision. Thereafter they kept him in the hospital ten days longer, 'feeding him up' as the patient expressed it—at the end of which period Webster, some fifteen pounds lighter and not quite so fast on his feet as formerly, resumed his journey toward New Orleans.

In the meantime, however, several things had happened. To begin, Dolores Rusey spent two days wondering what had become of her quondam knight of the whiskers—at the end of which period she arrived in New Orleans with the conviction strong upon her that while her hero might be as courageous as a wounded lion when dealing with men, he was the possessor, when dealing with women, of about two per cent less courage than a cottontail rabbit. Being a very human young lady, however, she could not help wondering what had become of the ubiquitous Mr. Webster, although the fact that he had mysteriously disappeared from the train en route to New Orleans did not perturb her one-half so much as it had the disappearance. She had this advantage over that unfortunate man. Whereas he did not know she was bound for Buenaventura, she knew he was; hence, upon arrival in New Orleans she dismissed him from her thoughts, serene in abiding faith that sooner or later her knight would appear, like little Bo-Peep's lost sheep, dragging his tail behind him, so to speak.

Dolores spent a week in New Orleans renewing schoolgirl friendships from her convent days in the quaint old town. This stop-over, together with the one in Denver, not having been taken into consideration by Mr. William Geary when he and Mother Jenks commenced to speculate upon the approximate date of her arrival in Buenaventura, resulted in the premature flight of Mother Jenks to San Miguel de Padua, a fruitless visit on the part of Billy about the Cacique of the United Fruit company's line, followed by a hurry call to Mother Jenks to return to Buenaventura until the arrival of the next steamer.

This time Billy's calculations proved correct, for Dolores did arrive on that steamer. The port doctor came aboard, partook of his customary drink with the captain, received a bundle of the latest American newspapers and magazines, nosed around, asked a few perfunctory questions, and gave the vessel pratique.

Dolores observed a gasoline launch, shot up to the landing at the foot of the companion-ladder and discharge a well-dressed, youthful white man. As he came up the companion, the purser recognized him.

"Howdy, Bill," he called.

"Hello, yourself," Mr. William Fullington, Cherry street.

Why Pick Up After a Laundress?

It's almost as much of a task as the washing itself—picking up after your laundress; seeing that things are rightly done; fussing over her meals; measuring out soap and starch and other supplies.

Our Family Laundry Service saves you all this.

We call for your family bundle and attend to all these details for you. And promptly, on the dot, we return your clothes, beautifully clean, everything dried and ready to put away except a few starched pieces that you can easily iron.

It's a saving service, saving for you and saving for your clothes. It's a service you can always depend upon; and the little ironing which is left for you to do at home becomes really a pleasure.

We know that you'll like this modern way of taking the toil out of wash day.

Try it, today—phone for our driver; we'll have him call for your washing.

THE GRANARY

A Column of News and Timely Topics for the Man Who Feeds the World

In many respects there is nothing unusual in the life story of Henry Cantwell Wallace, the new Secretary of Agriculture. He did not run away from home; it is not recorded that he was expelled from school; nor did any prophet arise in his youth and predict dire things of his future. He seems to have been then, as he is now, a perfectly normal person, patient, slow, dependable—with a sturdily Scotch temperament and a touch of religious fervor inherited from his father, who was first a clergyman and later a farmer.

Henry C. Wallace was born fifty-four years ago in Rock Island, Ill., where his father was pastor of the United Presbyterian Church. During the ministry of his father, he attended school there, and also at Davenport and Morning Sun, Iowa. Then his father was threatened with tuberculosis and was advised by the family physician to take up farming, as an outdoor life seemed to offer the only hope for successfully combating that dread disease.

During his ministry, the elder Mr. Wallace had acquired three farms of wild land in Adair county, Iowa. So the family moved to Winterset, the only town near this land offering educational advantages for the children. There Henry C. Wallace was graduated from the high school, worked on his father's farms in vacation, learned the printer's trade, and otherwise lived the uneventful life of a youth in a country town.

At eighteen, he went to Ames Agricultural College, and studied there for two years, teaching school during vacation to make expenses. At the end of his second year, one of the tenants on a 320-acre farm belonging to his father threw up his lease just two weeks before the college term opened. Since another tenant could not be secured, it was necessary for young Henry to give up his college career, and to take over the farm himself.

From 1887 until 1892, Mr. Wallace farmed this tract of wild land. He brought a good deal of it under cultivation, growing grain and breeding and feeding several hundred head of horses, cattle and hogs each year.

"During some of this time," he said recently, "farm conditions were very similar to those existing at the present time. I burned corn for fuel and sold corn at from ten to fifteen cents per bushel and hogs at $2.75 per hundred. But land values were low and labor was cheap as compared with those of the present time.

In the fall of 1892, Henry Wallace was offered a position at the Wisconsin Agricultural Experiment Station. Returning from a visit there, he stopped off at Ames to consult an old friend, Professor Wilson, at the advisability of accepting the offer. Professor Wilson urged that he go to Ames instead of Madison. Professor Wilson at Ames was none other than "Tama Jim" Wilson, afterward Secretary of Agriculture in the cabinets of Presidents McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft. Mr. Wallace completed his agricultural training under "Tama Jim," and when he was graduated Mr. Wilson made him assistant of dairying on the College staff. He occupied this position for three years.

Henry Wallace has continued to own and operate farms in various parts of the country. At one time he was operating five farms in as many states; but in recent years, he has found it impossible to secure hired labor competent enough to manage his farms on a profitable basis. So he has disposed of all the farms except one 280-acre farm a few miles north of Des Moines. This farm supplied the hospital at Camp Dodge with milk during the war, a fact of which Mr. Wallace is very proud.

He has a family of six children, three boys and three girls. Two of the boys are veterans of the war.

"So far as we have any record," says Mr. Wallace, "our family has been entirely a family of farmers, with two exceptions. Two Wallaces who lived about seventy-five years ago were not farmers, but were grain and produce dealers. Every other member of the family has been a practical farmer." Mr. Wallace's father, "Uncle" Henry Wallace, was long prominent in agricultural affairs. He was a member of President Roosevelt's Country Life Commission and was an agricultural editor and writer of repute.

Mr. Wallace recently assured the writer that he is in thorough sympathy with President Harding's agricultural program as announced by the President in The Farm Journal for December and that he is going to do all in his power to vitalize this program.

Those who know Henry Wallace feel that he will go quietly about accomplishing this very thing. "A new day has dawned in American agriculture," he said, "for the President's program is the most forward-looking program ever announced by any one in public life. And it is so sound in principle that the farmers of America can afford to look to the future with confidence."—Farm Journal.

Miss Lorna Gardner, of Bradford, is visiting her sister, Mrs. F. L. Ward, William street, at present.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Blair Sykes at their home, Market street, a son, on Saturday evening last.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mason are spending a few days with their son, John, in Reynoldsville.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS CURWENSVILLE

Mrs. Catherine Thompson passed her ninety-seventh mile stone in life last week. Mrs. Appar Bloom also entered upon the eighty-third journey of life. Both women are enjoying good health and bid fair to celebrate several north birthday anniversaries ere the death hand is laid upon their brows. We hope so at least, as does also their many friends throughout the town and county. Mrs. Thompson's name was Hepburn before her marriage and that of Mrs. Bloom, Graham, an aunt of Alfred Graham, of Clearfield.

Mr. and Mrs. John Blake spent a part of last and also a part of this week in New York state and New York city. While in the city Mr. Blake met with some of the head men of the P. H. and L. tannery and made an effort to have the large plant start up to its fullest capacity. It is likely that his mission will meet with success.

Mrs. Henry Addleman, who was reported seriously ill the latter part of last week, is somewhat improved, but is still within the danger line.

Miss Regina Kennedy, of Ridgeway, who has been a clerk in the office of Fred J. Dyer for the past several years, is reported as being seriously ill at the home of Miss Rebecca Stover, corner of George and Filbert streets. It is thought that unless a change for the better takes place soon, it is possible she cannot survive long. Her mother and sister were summoned to her bed side from Ridgeway, the latter part of last week.

Miss Edith Hart, a daughter of James Hart, now a resident of Philadelphia, formerly a resident of this place, was married at Endicott, N. Y., recently to Oliver Conklin, of Deposit, Rev. Galbreth reading the marriage lines. They will reside in Endicott. The bride is a sister of Mrs. Charles Anderson, Blooming-ton avenue, Irvin hill.

The many friends and acquaintances of Leslie Stewart, Clearfield, were in deep sorrow last Friday in learning of his death, although gleaning from The Progress from time to time that he was seriously ill. He was the father of J. Lynn Stewart and Mrs. Frank Hastings, residents of Curwensville, both of whom were at his bed side as he entered the dark valley from which no traveler returns.

James Decker, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Rush Decker, South Side, who had an ankle severely injured recently, is able to be about again.

Our informant misled us a trifle in detailing an account of Albert Girrill's accident. He was not taken to the Clearfield Hospital, but to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Girrill, Blooming-ton avenue, Irvin hill. He is under the care of Dr. Erhard, who reported Saturday that the young man was getting along nicely.

Charles McClure, superintendent of a sand stone quarry at Red Wing, Cambria county, spent Friday and Saturday last with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McClure, Ridge avenue. He reports all of the Curwensville boys who are working under him as being in good health and sticking to their jobs like old veterans in the process of quarrying stone, a rather dangerous occupation.

Some miscreants broke into the hunting camps of the Greenwood and Bickford Clubs last week. The buildings were ransacked from bow to stern. Nothing of any value was taken from either of the lodges so far as the members have been able to ascertain. At the Bickford camp, however, bed clothing, cooking utensils, etc., were strewn over the floor. The locks at both places were broken off in order to gain an entrance.

Life became so monotonous at the Lumber City brick plant for Superintendent Ashley Bloom that he hid himself to Curwensville, Saturday and mingled with old friends and also transacted business connected with his work.

The correspondent has noticed for

Those Frilly Taffeta Frocks

DESIGNERS just cannot keep away from frills when the season brings in a vogue for taffeta—especially when colors are lively. Taffeta is a sprightly fabric that provides most of its own trimming, and when two-toned, or changeable silks are presented, the trimming effects possible with them are not to be resisted. Even in dark colors and black, taffeta and frills remain cheerful and alluring. In the picture above a light, changeable taffeta at the left and a black, embellished with lace at the right, are among the most pleasing of the new afternoon frocks.

Both these dresses are made with plain underskirts and long tunics. The tunic in the light dress is cut in long panels rounded at the bottom, that recall the much-admired petal skirts of last year. The panels are edged with double frills of the taffeta, but there are no frills on the bodice. Its only decoration appears in a little needle work at each side which extends below the waistline and is repeated on each of the panels. This absence of frills on the bodice makes opportunity for lace or net collar and cuffs. The crushed girdle about the waist is made of the taffeta.

Deep cream or ecru nets and laces that are now lacking in fashion's smile, find themselves placed to the best advantage on black. The dress at the right is handsome and original with full skirt, long tunic, pointed at the bottom and a moderately wide flounce with frayed edges, cascaded down each side. Its bodice with square neck and elbow sleeves is extended below the waistline and finished with a little apron-flounce of lace, doing away with a girdle, and there is a cluster of velvet leaves and cherries at the left side. Lace at the neck and frills of it finishing the sleeves, make this a becoming model that its owner will feel well dressed in on many occasions.

A Party Frock Girdle. A ribbon and flower girdle, is one of the daintiest of additions to a girl's party dress, and it can be home-made too. Narrow silver or delicately tinted ribbons are used, and dainty artificial flowers are caught on along the edge. The smaller the flowers the better, such as wee roses, daisies, violets and forget-me-nots. The silver ribbons with picot edges in color make attractive girdles of this sort. The color of the edge is brought out again in the flowers scattered over the ribbon.

some months past local papers in nearly all towns in the county publish a list of all persons who are ill with a disease. Would it not be a good idea if the secretary of Curwensville's board of health would do likewise? It is information that the people of every community ought to be informed upon.

The Elk sole leather factory is getting in shape for an early start. A crew of men were working Friday and Saturday connecting up steam pipes. A number of loft men started work today. It could not be learned Saturday whether the plant would run in full or part.

It will be noticed in reading over the list of real estate transfers that Anthony Hilo, executor, has transferred to Mrs. Kline Farwell a plot of ground on Ridge avenue, receiving the sum of $225 for same.

Prominent Rochester Citizen Tried Ten Years to get Relief, but Tanlac is Only Thing That Helped Him

One of the latest to testify regarding the powers of Tanlac, the celebrated medicine which has been accomplishing such remarkable results, is James J. Beasley, 102 Elmdorf avenue, Rochester, New York. Mr. Beasley has been chief record keeper for the Department of Water Works, city of Rochester, for thirty years and is a well known and highly respected citizen. In referring to the remarkable recovery of his health by the use of Tanlac, Mr. Beasley said: "I have been trying for ten years to find relief from a case of dyspepsia. Nothing ever helped me to amount to anything until I got Tanlac. This is saying a great deal, for I did everything it seems that a man could do to find relief. Of course, I was hardly ever sick enough to go to bed and was most always able to keep going, but I just never felt right. At times during those ten years, my stomach would become sour like vinegar. I would have an uncomfortable bloated up feeling after eating that would last for hours. I suffered a great deal from nausea. At times my heart would flutter and palpitate and I would become alarmed over my condition. My nerves were on edge all the time, and I became irritable, nervous and restless. I had no strength or energy to do anything. In fact I wasn't like myself at all. Even a week or two ago

"CHEER UP MABEL" COMING WITH JEWELLED RUNBOARD

George E. Wintz, who aims to present something different from what is offered by the usual run of musical comedies and in his latest production, "Cheer Up Mabel," which will be presented at the Driggs Theater on Tuesday, March 15, there are many unusual innovations. The popularity of this production everywhere it has been seen thoroughly demonstrates the fact that the book is amusing, that the music is tuneful, that the girls are pretty, and that the scenic and costume appointments are on a lavish scale. There are many unusual innovations and which with the electrical effects produce some remarkable revelations in stage artistry. One of the feature novelties is the "Jeweled Flirtation Runway," an illuminated runboard extending from the stage almost to the back wall of the theater and the many numbers introduced on the "walk" offer new and amusing entertainment to all. Money has been spent lavishly to make this new musical play a rousing success.

Such performers as Nyra Brown, America's most beautiful actress, John G. Getz, ace of comedians, Helen Janis, Ace Wingfield, Victoria Thorn, Bill Barbee, Seymour Sisters, Joe Coyle, Edna Clayton, Betty Earle, Henry Fox and the Harmony Quartet guarantee the excellency of the cast.

The score of big song hits are sufficiently popular to make any show a success; including "Cheer Up Mabel," "Hold Me," "Old Fashioned Garden," "Land of Niles," "Koolen Off," "Huddle Me Alone," "Island Dreams," "My Cupie," "Why Baby" and many others.

Webster

Geary replied, and Dolores knew him for an American. "Do you happen to have as a passenger this trip a large, interesting person, by name John Stuart Webster?" added Billy Geary.

"I don't know, Billy. I'll look over the passenger list," and together they moved off toward his office. Dolores followed, drawn by the mention of that magic name Webster, and paused in front of the purser's office to lean over the rail, ostensibly to watch the gangsters in their lighters clustering around the great ship, but in reality to learn more of the mysterious Webster.

"Blast the luck," Billy Geary growled, "the old sninner isn't here. By the way, do you happen to have a Miss Dolores Ruey aboard?"

Dolores pricked up her little ears. What possible interest could this stranger have in her goings or comings?

"You picked a winner this time, Bill," she heard the purser say. "Stateroom sixteen, boat-deck, starboard side. You'll probably find her there, packing to go ashore."

"Thanks," Billy replied and stepped out of the purser's office. Dolores turned and faced him.

"I am Miss Ruey," she announced. "I heard you asking for me." Her eyes carried the query she had not put into words: "Who are you, and what do you want?" Billy saw and understood, and on the instant a wave of desolation surged over him.

So this was the vision he had volunteered to meet aboard La Estrella, and by specious lie and hypocritical turn her back from the port of Buenaventura to that dear old United States, which, Billy suddenly recalled with poignant pain, is a sizable country in which a young lady may very readily be lost forever. With the quick eye of youth, he noted that Dolores was perfectly wonderful in a white flannel skirt and jacket, white buck shoes, white panama hat with a gorgeous puggaree, a manish little linen collar, and a red four-in-hand tie. From under that white hat peeped a profusion of curly brown hair with a slightly reddish tinge to it; her eyes were big and brown and wide apart, with golden flecks in them; their glance met Billy's hungry gaze simply, directly, and with a curiosity there was no attempt to hide. Her nose was patrician; her beautiful short upper lip revealed the tips of two perfect, milk-white front teeth; she was, Billy Geary told himself, a goddess before whom all low, worthless, ornery fellows like himself should grovel and die happy, if perchance she might be so minded as to walk on his faces! He was aroused from his critical inventory when the hour spoke again:

"You haven't answered my question, sir!"

"No," said Billy. "I didn't. Stupid of me, too. However, come to think of it, you didn't ask me any question. You looked it. My name is Geary."

William H. Geary, by profession a mining engineer and by nature an ignoramus, and I have called to deliver some disappointing news regarding Henrietta Wilkins."

"Is she—"

"She is. Very much alive and in excellent health—or rather was, the last time it was my pleasure and privilege to call on the dear lady. But she isn't in Buenaventura now. Mentally Billy asked God to forgive him his black-hearted treachery to this winsome girl. He loathed the task he had planned and foisted upon himself, and nothing but the memory of Mother Jenks' manifold kindnesses to him in a day, thanks to Jack Webster, now happily behind him, could have induced him to go through to the finish."

"Why, where is she?" Dolores queried, and Billy could have wept at the sight in those lovely brown eyes.

He waved his hand airily. "Quien sabe?" he said. "She left three weeks ago for New Orleans to visit you. I dare say you passed each other on the road—here, here, Miss Ruey, don't cry."

He took a recess of three minutes, while Dolores dabbed her eyes and went through sundry other motions of being brave. Then he proceeded with his nefarious recital.

"When your cablegram arrived, Miss Ruey, naturally Mrs. Wilkins was not here to receive it, and as I was the only person who had her address, the cable agent referred it to me. Under the circumstances, not knowing where I could reach you with a cable informing you that Mrs. Wilkins was headed for California to see you. I had no other alternative but to let matters take their course. I decided you might arrive on La Estrella, so I called to welcome you to our thriving little city, and, as a friend of about two minutes' standing, to warn you away from it."

Billy's mien, as he voiced this warning, was so singularly mysterious that Dolores' curiosity was aroused instantly and rose superior to her grief. "Why, what's the matter?" she demanded.

Billy looked around, as if fearful of being overheard. He lowered his voice. "We're going to have one grand little first-class revolution," he replied. "It's due to bust almost any night now, and when it does, the streets of San Buenaventura will run red with blood."

"Dolores blanched. 'Oh, dearie me,' she quavered. 'Do they still have revolutions here? You know, Mr. Geary, my poor father was killed in one.'"

"Yes, and the same old political gang that shot him is still on deck," Billy warned her. "It would be highly dangerous for a Ruey, man or woman, to show his or her nose around Buenaventura about now. Besides, Miss Ruey, that isn't the worst," he continued, for a whole-hearted lad was Billy, who never did anything by halves. "The city is reeking with cholera," he declared.

"Cholera!" Dolores' big brown eyes grew bigger with wonder and concern. "How strange the port authorities didn't warn us at New Orleans!"

"Tish! Tish! Fiddlesticks and then some. The fruit company censors everything, Miss Ruey, and the news doesn't get out."

"But the port doctor just said the passengers could go ashore."

"What's a human life to a doctor? Besides, he's on the slush-und pay roll and does whatever the high-ups tell him. You be guided by what I tell you, Miss Ruey, and do not set foot on San Juan soil. If you stay aboard La Estrella, you'll have your nice clean stateroom, your well-cooked meals, your bath, and the attentions of the stewardess. The steamer will be loaded in two days; then you go back to New Orleans, and by the time you arrive there, I'll have been in communication by cable with Mother Jenks—I mean—"

"Mother who?" Dolores demanded. "A mere slip of the tongue, Miss Ruey. I was thinking of my landlady, I meant Mrs. Wilkins."

"I'm so awfully obliged to you, Mr. Geary. You're so kind, I'm sure I'd be a most ungrateful girl not to be guided by you accordingly. You wouldn't risk any friend of yours in this terrible place, would you, Mr. Geary?"

"Indeed, I would not. By permitting anybody I thought anything of to come to this city, I should feel guilty of murder."

"I'm sure you would, Mr. Geary. Nevertheless, there is one point that is not quite clear in my mind, and I wish you'd explain—"

"Command me, Miss Ruey."

"If this is such a frightful place, why are you so anxious, if I may employ such language, to horsewoggle your dearest friend, Mr. John S. Webster, into coming down here? Do you want to kill him and get his money—or what?"

Billy's face flamed at thought of the embarrassing trap his glib tongue had led him into. He cursed himself for a star-strangled jackass, and while he was engaged in this interesting pastime Dolores spoke again.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect.

That Sudden, Sharp Pain

Which you experience at times can be removed! No woman has the right to suffer when she can obtain relief safely, certainly and promptly. Suppose you do have headaches, backaches, extreme nervousness, low spirits and general good-for-nothing feelings at times? Your case is not hopeless. These symptoms are evidence that the delicate organism of the feminine body has become out of order and needs the help Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can bestow, this is what many women write Dr. Pierce, Pres. Invalids' Hotel at Buffalo, N. Y. Many of your neighbors would say the same of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Altoona, Pa.—"For some time I suffered with feminine weakness. I suffered with backaches and dizzy spells and was so nervous I could not sleep. I was so weak I could scarcely walk across the floor and could not do anything in the way of work. I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it completely cured me of all weakness and restored me to health. Favorite Prescription is the best medicine a woman can take for feminine trouble and to build up a nervous, run-down system."—Mrs. Edith Clapper, 935—17th St.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

A few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur bring back its vigor, color, gloss and youthfulness

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and luxuriant.

This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.
